BNY MELLON

ClearTran Services Renamed

To streamline the way we communicate about how our products and services can help solve your business challenges, we are changing the long-time brand names of a few of our key offerings to more clearly define the value those services provide. As part of that effort, BNY Mellon ClearTran services are being renamed BNY Mellon Electronic Receivable Payment services.

As we retire the ClearTran name, we remain committed to continually growing our electronic receivable payments solutions, including expanding our Biller Direct Receivable services to a global platform, and continuing to focus on our new receivables payment portal, IVR/VRU system, mobile solutions, call center payment acceptance and Electronic Invoice Presentment and Payment services that are designed to consistently offer cost savings and streamlined efficiencies.

We are working to reflect the name change in all of our materials. Please note that the old name may continue to appear until the changeover has been completed.

As BNY Mellon continues to put clients at the center of everything we do, you can view our newly refreshed brand at bnymellon.com and learn how our services – delivered by the collaborative and collective efforts of over 48,000 people around the world – are positioned to outpace the many challenges you face in today's evolving global marketplace.
