

THE BUCK STARTED HERE

In 1784, our founder, Alexander Hamilton, invested in America and started what is today, the nation's longest running bank.

You could say, the buck started here.

In the 230 years since then, countries have been created, borders have been erased, and new markets have emerged.

But the essential things remain constant.

We've endured by continually looking to the future, and staying invested in innovation.

We created the first tax-exempt funds, the first commodity ETFs, and the first mobile securities processing application.

Today, we're the investment management and investment services company that oversees 28.9 trillion dollars.

And we've become one of the world's top 10 investment managers.

We help clients conduct business in 35 countries, and 100 markets, which gives us a unique vantage point to see the world like no one else.

We're BNY Mellon, and we're the investments company for the world.

The statement that our company “oversees 28.9 trillion dollars” is valid as of December 31, 2015.

The statement that BNY Mellon is “one of the world’s top ten investment managers” is based upon Pension & Investments, November 2015 ranking of total assets under management.
