

BNY MELLON CANADA EMPLOYEE PERSONAL INFORMATION PRIVACY NOTICE

Last Updated: October 28, 2022

The BNY Mellon affiliate responsible for your personal information will be the BNY Mellon affiliate identified in your employment contract or contract for services (“BNY Mellon”, “we”, “us”), and will be the data controller of your personal information. In addition, where the personal information is processed by other members of BNY Mellon for their own independent purposes, those BNY Mellon members will be independent controllers of your personal information.

This Privacy Notice (“Notice”) explains how we collect, use and share employees’ personal information, including:

- What personal information do we process
- How BNY Mellon collects personal information
- The purposes for which personal information is processed and our legal basis for carrying out the processing
- Retention of personal information
- Security of personal information
- Disclosure and international transfer of personal information
- Your rights as a data subject

We may amend this Notice from time to time to keep it up to date with legal requirements and the way in which we operate our business. If we make changes to this Notice, we will seek to inform you by notice on the BNY Mellon intranet or email (“Notice of Change”).

WHAT INFORMATION DO WE PROCESS?

Where permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located and depending on your role, the benefits you are provided with and your circumstances, we may collect the following personal information about you for the purposes described in this Notice:

- Employee claims, complaints and disclosures information: subject matter of employment or contract-based litigation and complaints, pre-claim conciliation, communications, settlement discussions, claim proceeding records, employee involvement in incident reporting and disclosures and records of any settlements or the outcome of any litigation and/or complaints;
- Equality and diversity information (where authorized by law): information regarding gender, age, race, nationality, religious belief, sexuality or other protected ground information (reported anonymously for equal opportunities monitoring purposes); and
- Any other personal information that you choose to provide to us during the course of your employment, whether verbally or in written form.

SENSITIVE AND SPECIAL CATEGORIES OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

Where permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located and depending on your role, the benefits you are provided with and your circumstances, we may collect and process a limited amount of the following personal information falling into special categories, sometimes called "sensitive personal information":

- Health-related details, including any reasonable adjustments that we may be required by law to make to your working arrangements;
- Information revealing racial, ethnic, national origin or other protected ground information;
- Judicial information, including the results of criminal or police records checks which can include details of offences, alleged offences and sentences and information from other intelligence sources (subject to relevant local laws and record retention periods);

- Marital status and next of kin; and
- Political opinions, religious beliefs or other similar beliefs and sexual orientation, should you choose to provide any such information to us.

HOW DOES BNY MELLON COLLECT INFORMATION?

We collect your personal information from a variety of sources, but in most circumstances directly from you. You will usually provide this information directly to your managers or local HR contact, or enter it into our systems (for example, through Employee Self Service (ESS), your participation in HR processes, emails and instant messages which may be recorded electronically or manually). In addition, further information about you will come from your managers, HR or occasionally from your colleagues.

Where permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located, we may also obtain some information from third parties, e.g. references from a previous employer, medical reports from external professionals, information from tax authorities, benefit providers or where we employ a third party to carry out a background check or, occasionally, from clients.

Electronic Monitoring: In some circumstances, personal information may be collected using monitoring systems or by other means (for example, building and location access control and monitoring systems, CCTV, network traffic filtering and logging, application and system management tools, telephone logs and recordings, instant messages emails and Internet access on BNY Mellon equipment or systems), if and to the extent authorized by applicable laws. In these circumstances, the personal information may be collected by BNY Mellon or a third-party provider of the relevant service. Access may occur, for instance, where permissible by law, in situations where BNY Mellon is reviewing occupancy and building access information, investigating possible violations of Company policies, or conducting random reviews of its systems to ensure appropriate activities are being carried out. BNY Mellon may also access monitoring information to support and improve its business planning, audit its security practices, and to maintain and repair its technology and infrastructure. Where we ask you to provide personal information to us on a mandatory basis, we will inform you of this at the time of collection and in the event that particular information is required by the contract or statute this will be indicated. The failure to provide mandatory information will mean that we cannot carry out certain HR processes. For example, if you do not provide us with your bank details, we will not be able to pay you. In some cases, it may mean that we are unable to continue with your employment or engagement, as BNY Mellon will not have the personal information we believe to be necessary for the effective and efficient administration and management of our relationship with you.

Apart from personal information relating to you, you may also provide BNY Mellon with personal information of third parties, notably your dependents and other family members, for purposes of HR administration and management, including the administration of benefits and someone to contact in an emergency. Before you provide such third-party personal information to BNY Mellon you must first inform these third parties of any such information that you intend to provide to BNY Mellon and of the processing to be carried out by BNY Mellon, as detailed in this Notice.

WHAT ARE THE PURPOSES FOR WHICH PERSONAL INFORMATION IS PROCESSED AND WHAT IS OUR LEGAL BASIS FOR CARRYING OUT THE PROCESSING?

Your personal information is collected and processed for various purposes, in accordance to the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located and/or any applicable collective bargaining agreements. We have set out in this Notice the purposes for which we may use your personal information. Personal information may occasionally be used for purposes not obvious to you where the circumstances warrant such use, e.g., in investigations or disciplinary proceedings. We may, where we think it is necessary, provide you with additional information in relevant HR policies to ensure that you understand how your personal information may be used.

The legal basis on which we process your personal information

We will only collect, use and share your personal information where we are satisfied that one or more of the following lawful bases apply (subject to any local law derogations stated herein):

- The processing and use is necessary to establish, manage or terminate an employment relationship, including conducting an investigation related thereto;
- The processing is necessary for compliance with a provision of law under the law to which BNY Mellon is subject, for example, disclosing information to local tax authorities, making statutory payments, avoiding unlawful termination, avoiding unlawful discrimination, meeting statutory record keeping requirements or health and safety obligations;
- The processing is necessary in the context of a business transaction to which BNY Mellon and you are parties;
- The processing of personal information is publicly available information and will be used for a purpose that is consistent with the purpose of its public availability;
- The processing is necessary for purposes permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer is located for specific purposes, such as preventing fraud, preventing terrorist financing, diversity monitoring;
- The processing is necessary for complying with an order made by either the court or regulator;
- The processing of personal information is necessary to respond to an emergency that threatens the life, health or security of an individual or the public; or
- The processing is for purpose of contacting the next of kin or friend of an injured, ill or deceased individual.

Consent

Where permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located, the processing of your personal information (i.e. collecting, using and/or sharing) may, in specific circumstances, be based on your consent. Consent will be used where there is voluntary processing for special category data where no other legal justification applies, where the processing is at an employee's request or where the processing is required under the law of the jurisdiction in which your employer is located. Where consent is required for the processing in question, it will be sought from you separately to ensure that it is freely given, informed and explicit. Information regarding such processing will be provided to you at the time that consent is requested, along with the impact of not providing any such consent. BNY Mellon may also rely on implied consent as a legal basis to process and use your personal information to establish, manage, and terminate an employment relationship.

You should be aware that it is not a condition or requirement of your employment to agree to any request for consent from BNY Mellon, and that you have a right to revoke your consent at any time, by contacting your local HR representative.

ADDITIONAL INFORMATION ON THE USE OF ARTIFICIAL INTELLIGENCE AND MACHINE LEARNING

BNY Mellon uses both manual and automated methods of processing. In particular, we may use automated methods of processing such as Artificial Intelligence (“AI”) and Machine Learning (“ML”), which are a set of technologies programmed to perform tasks and actions that are commonly associated with human beings. We may use AI and/or ML to optimize and increase the efficiency of business processes (e.g. to support customer service desks that receive inbound inquiries) and/or to support and enhance existing security controls.

Automated methods of processing are subject to regularly tested controls designed to ensure accuracy and fairness of the output. By using AI and/or ML, we do not intend to make automated decisions about you and therefore its application would not produce legal or similarly significant effects concerning you, unless stated otherwise in a specific privacy notice provided to you directly.

RETENTION OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

BNY Mellon endeavors to keep personal information as current as possible and to delete or anonymize irrelevant or excessive personal information as soon as reasonably practicable. The retention of personal information relating to both current and former employees and contractors will endure in accordance with the Global Records Management Policy I-D-200 that provides a framework for managing BNY Mellon records.

SECURITY OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

BNY Mellon takes the protection of your personal information very seriously. BNY Mellon has appropriate organizational and technical measures in place, as required by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located, to ensure the security of the personal information it collects. Further details in relation to the control, processing, storage, transmission and communication of information, including personal information, can be found on the Compliance and Information Risk Management intranet sites.

DISCLOSURE AND INTERNATIONAL TRANSFER OF PERSONAL INFORMATION

For the above purposes and subject to the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located, personal information may be transferred within or outside of the jurisdiction where you are employed or perform work, either within BNY Mellon or to third parties, including, but not limited to:

- any holding company, subsidiary, affiliate or any other associated entity of BNY Mellon, where such disclosure is necessary to provide employment related services or to manage our business;
- certain third party including suppliers and service providers including; labor law consultants; government departments; travel agencies; actuaries; fund managers; banks; insurers; insurance brokers; credit reference agencies; credit institutions; pension providers; trustees; auditors; legal and tax advisers; investigators; medical practitioners; IT personnel; business consultants or professional advisors; courts and tribunals; law enforcement agencies; relevant regulatory authorities; prospective employers; employment and recruitment agencies; educators and examining bodies; mentors; counsellors; your immediate family, associates or authorized representatives and outplacement service providers.

BNY Mellon may disclose personal information when required by law or court order, or as requested by any government or regulator or law enforcement authority or agency, or if it determines in good faith that disclosure is otherwise necessary or advisable, including and without limitation to protect BNY Mellon's rights or property or in circumstances which BNY Mellon or its advisers consider it to be appropriate or related to any of the purposes for which the personal information is collected.

Where permitted by the law of the jurisdiction in which you or your employer are located, BNY Mellon may also disclose personal information to a third party where it is necessary to do so in order to protect or pursue BNY Mellon's legitimate interests (ensuring this is proportionate and limited to that information which is strictly necessary in the circumstances). This may include disclosure to a party with whom BNY Mellon is in negotiation for the sale or transfer of a business, assets or services. BNY Mellon will take appropriate steps to ensure that the recipient of personal information in such circumstances puts in place an adequate level of protection for such personal information in accordance with applicable legal requirements.

BNY Mellon operates on a global basis. Accordingly, your personal information may be transferred and stored in countries outside of your jurisdiction (such as the USA and India), that are subject to different standards of data protection. Where BNY Mellon transfers personal information internally within BNY Mellon or to any third party between different jurisdictions, for the purposes outlined in this document, it will take appropriate steps to ensure that transfers are in accordance with applicable law and carefully managed to protect your privacy rights and interests. To this end:

- Transfers within BNY Mellon entities will be conducted in a manner that adheres to data protection laws;
- Where we transfer your personal information outside BNY Mellon, or to third parties who help provide our products and services, we obtain contractual commitments from them to protect your personal information with equivalent standards; or
- Where we receive requests for information from law enforcement or regulators, we carefully validate these requests before personal information is disclosed.

You have a right to contact our Data Protection Officer (details provided at the end of this document) for more information about the safeguards we have put in place (including a copy of relevant contractual commitments) to ensure the adequate protection of your personal information when this is transferred as mentioned above.

YOUR RIGHTS AS A DATA SUBJECT

Right to access, correct and delete your personal information

- BNY Mellon aims to ensure that all personal information is correct, subject to changes to personal information and personal circumstances (for example, change of address and bank accounts) being notified promptly.
- You have the right to request access to/ a copy of any of your personal information that BNY Mellon may hold, and to request correction of any inaccurate information relating to you. You furthermore have the right to request deletion of any irrelevant information we hold about you.
- You can see and update some of this information yourself via Employee Self Service. However, to correct/update other information, you will need to contact local Human Resources.
- Your right to access the personal information that we hold about you is not absolute. There are instances where applicable law or regulatory requirements allow or require us to refuse to provide some or all of the personal information that we hold about you.
- We may charge you a fee to access your personal information; however, we will advise you of any fee in advance.

Right to withdraw consent

- Where we have relied on your consent to process particular information and you have provided us with your consent to process the information, you have the right to withdraw such consent at any time. You can do this by (i) in some cases deleting the relevant information from the relevant HR system (although note that in this case it may remain in back-ups and linked systems until it is deleted in accordance with our Global Records Management Policy I-D-200); or (ii) contacting your local Human Resources contact.
