How can asset owners lead operational transformation in a changing investment and digital landscape?

Rohan Singh

Asset owners are having to rethink their front-to-back investment and operating model as you look to right-risk, and right-source, and future proof your data and operating models. To achieve this, it is key to have access to an investment book of record that enables a holistic view across the business, recording every position across all asset classes in the portfolio.

The investment and operating models that empower alpha

Marcel Prins

The key changes that were driven in the last years were the theme called controlled simplicity. Literally cleaning up the global operating model where we truly were driving a transition from what you could call multi-local to a global operating platform, also driving sharing technology platforms and data sets.

Alex Far

We've taken a full risk-based approach to our asset allocation, we went through an extensive asset liability study, which really was put in place to help shape our future. It's educating our internal team, our key stakeholders, the Board of Trustees on the risk and return profiles of the various asset classes that we're currently in, also increasing some additional sophistication like leverage into our plan.

Achieving a Single Source of Truth

Jalal Faruki

Client expectations are always growing on how close to real-time they get with that data, so the challenge is always how do we get to that frequency that they want while also maintaining there is only one source of data truth.

Julie Pominville

Our mantra is really to have more data, structured data, but also to make sure that we are information super-rich. These days you can be really data-rich, but still information-poor.

Ridzuan Idrus

One of the areas that we are in the midst of implementation now is actually the data management solution. So that moving forward we have a single source of truth of the code and copy, of the data, the security masters and so on, taking from various data sources that we actually subscribe.

Combining the best of breed capabilities within a data-centric model

Mark McKeon

At BNY Mellon, we've been focused on helping our clients address some of those challenges by delivering an open data-centric platform that combines the best of BNY Mellon with industry-leading vendors, so we can really give clients the best of breed capabilities within those asset classes, within those functions, whether it's looking at attribution models, portfolio construction, risk management.
