

Cautionary Statement

A number of statements in this discussion and the responses to your questions may contain “forward-looking statements” within the meaning of the Private Litigation Reform Act of 1995, including statements about The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation’s (the “Corporation”) capital plans, strategic priorities, financial goals, organic growth, performance, organizational quality and efficiency, investments, including in technology and product development, resiliency, capabilities, revenue, net interest revenue, money market fee waivers, fees, expenses, cost discipline, sustainable growth, innovation in products and services, company management, human capital management (including related ambitions, objectives, aims and goals), deposits, interest rates and yield curves, securities portfolio, taxes, business opportunities, divestments (including the Corporation’s sale of Alcentra and the expected increase to the Corporation’s Common Equity Tier 1 capital), volatility and statements regarding the Corporation’s aspirations, as well as the Corporation’s overall plans, strategies, goals, objectives, expectations, outlooks, estimates, intentions, targets, opportunities, focus and initiatives, including the potential effects of the coronavirus pandemic on any of the foregoing. These statements may be expressed in a variety of ways, including the use of future or present tense language. Words such as “estimate,” “forecast,” “project,” “anticipate,” “likely,” “target,” “expect,” “intend,” “continue,” “seek,” “believe,” “plan,” “goal,” “could,” “should,” “would,” “may,” “might,” “will,” “strategy,” “synergies,” “opportunities,” “trends,” “ambition”, “objective,” “aim,” “future,” “potentially,” “outlook” and words of similar meaning may signify forward-looking statements. These forward-looking statements are based upon current beliefs and expectations and are subject to significant risks and uncertainties (some of which are beyond the Corporation’s control).

Actual results may differ materially from those expressed or implied as a result of a number of factors, including, but not limited to, those discussed in “Risk Factors” in the Corporation’s Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended December 31, 2021, in the Corporation’s Quarterly Report on Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2022, in the Corporation’s Current Report on Form 8-K dated May 31, 2022, and in other filings of the Corporation with the Securities and Exchange Commission (the “SEC”). Statements about the effects of the current and near-term market and macroeconomic outlook on the Corporation, including on its business, operations, financial performance and prospects, may constitute forward-looking statements, and are based on assumptions that involve risks and uncertainties and that are subject to change based on various important factors (some of which are beyond the Corporation’s control), including geopolitical risks (including those related to Russia’s invasion of Ukraine), as well as the scope and duration of the pandemic, actions taken by governmental authorities and other third parties in response to the pandemic, the availability, use and effectiveness of vaccines, and the direct and indirect impact of the pandemic on the Corporation, its clients, customers and third parties. All forward-looking statements speak only as of the date on which such statements were made, and the Corporation undertakes no obligation to update any forward-looking statement to reflect events or circumstances after that date or to reflect the occurrence of unanticipated events.
